CHICAGO MURDER CASE.

CHICAGO, June 27 .- Dr. Henry Martin Scudder, who stood charged with the murder of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary had been in good R. M. SCUDDER. spirits the day previous, reading and talking to the jail attendants, and seeming very cheerful.

In the evening be ordered a heavy supper and ate it with great relish, and from then until bed time laughed and chatted with two of the night keepers telling anecdotes and stories, and at 8:30 floor of his cell was locked for the night. Soon afterward two of the night warders heard a series of deep groans issuing from the cell, and on entering they discovered Dr. Scudder in a dying His bed was immediatel pulled into the corridor and medical aid summoned. Dr. Pynchon worked for three hours, but his efforts were futile and at 12:30 Dr. Scudder died without having regained consciousness.

George Painter, a condemned mur-derer, who occupied the next cell to that of Dr. Scudder, said that the latter had been given morphine in small quanti-ties by the physician who had been at-tending him. From remarks he had heard the doctor make, Painter thinks he had been saving the doses of mor-phine until he had accumulated a suffi cient quantity to end his life.

The object of the murder, it was claimed by the prosecution, was a determination to put Mrs. Dunton out of the way after having forged her will, so that Scudder's wife would become her principal heir. Mrs. Dunton's skull was crushed by a heavy wooden club. Insanity was the plea offered, and the case was several times continued in the criminal court to secure testimony on the point from witnesses in India, where the doctor lived with his father, who was stationed there as a missionary. His trial was set for July, Rev. Mr. Scudder, the deceased man's brother, when seen at his home early this morning, was deeply affected when he was told the sad news. He said that Henry had evinced suicidal tendencies

Mr. Scudder excused himself, saying he would go up stairs and awaken Mrs. Scudder, the doctor's wife. There was one scream that sounded through the house-a scream that bore evidence of a heart whose cords had been suddenly snapped by the news that a loved one was dead. Mrs. Scudder sank back on her pillows, helpless in her grief. "I fear that she does not fully comprehend what it all means," said Mr. Scudder, as he descended the stairway later, "and when a full realization does come, I am afraid it will be a death blow to her

THE PATROL SYSTEM

Will Bs In Operation as Soon as a Build-

The purpose of his visit here is to activate the council to a speedy culmination of the contract. The supplies, excepting the pairol wagon, have been here for some time, but the delay seems to be in the selection of a location for the patrol house. Several very desirable sites have been offered the committee, but as yet none of them have been purchased. Mr. Chandlee states that he has been awaiting the action of the council in erecting a building for the maintenance of the system, and when that is completed he will send the wagon along. The greater part of the wires are already strung, and it will be but a short time after the erection of the building when hauling drunks to headquarters by the handcart method will be done away with
